The Bourbon County Commission met in open session with Terry Graham and Gary Houston present. Joanne Long was also present. Bill Brittain was at New Commissioner training in Wichita. Minutes of the previous meeting were approved.

Jason Silvers, reporter with the Fort Scott Tribune, was present.

Clyde Killion gave a road report. He mentioned that his crew is prepared for the forecasted bad weather this weekend.

Charlie Blevins stopped in to speak to commissioners but decided to wait until next week when all were available.

Bills and payroll for the period were reviewed and approved.

Doylene Kennedy presented commissioners with a report from Schwab-Eaton for the bi-annual bridge inspection. Commissioners will review it further when Commissioner Brittain is here.

Lu Warren, 6th Judicial District Community Services, met with commissioners to introduce herself and to present proposed documents for consideration which will update the inter-local agreement between Bourbon County and the District. She would like to have commissioners review the documents, have them looked at by the county attorney and she will meet with them in the near future to hopefully update the inter-local agreement, which was last signed in 1999.

Barb Swearingen spoke to commissioners about the T-intersection at 230th Street and Kansas Road. Over the holidays, there were several vehicles that over-shot the turn and ended up in the brush. She would like some signage put up to warn of the curve or a stop sign put back up. Commissioner Houston will view the intersection this afternoon and the commissioners will pick up the discussion on Monday when Mr. Brittain is here.

Laura Hyer spoke to commissioners about 911 expenditures.

Ms. Hyer also presented commissioners with a draft of a resolution she would like the commissioners and county attorney to review regarding the County offering assistance to other entities in the event of a natural or man-made disaster.
